

The Week in Astoria Society

Items of Social Interest are selected for these columns and should be sent direct to the Astorian office to insure their insertion.

The period of rest and contentment, of exquisite relaxation, is yielding to the rapid approach of the serene and melancholy days, which are, however, accompanied by a potent spirit that is guiding out upon a highway of gaiety.

The clans who have begun to gather are recognizing many social changes—for new hostesses are appearing, and every waits to see who will set the ball a-rolling.

From the present outlook it would seem as if there are to be very few private parties, but there are to be several pleasant little gatherings and card parties galore; then also there will be skating meetings, unnumbered luncheons, dinners and teas, which are always a special feature and a separate fascination chapter unto themselves.

Miss Elsie Elmore entertained the pupils of her Sunday school class of the Methodist church yesterday afternoon with a dainty little party given on the lawn at her beautiful home.

The children spent the day by playing games and several novelties were introduced by the charming hostess music was also indulged in and was enjoyed by the older ones present and also the youngsters.

A dainty lunch was served which was relished by all of the forty seven who enjoyed Miss Elmore's hospitality and at a late hour the guests departed after having spent a lovely day.

Minstrels do not appeal to one class of theatregoers alone, but to them all, from the peanut eating urchin of the gallery to the evening dress aristocrat of the boxes. No, indeed, everyone likes the minstrels, for there is something so natural and spontaneous about their fun that is simply irresistible.

The acknowledged leaders in the minstrel field, Richards & Pringle's justly famous aggregation, have been secured by the management of the Astoria Theatre for next Saturday matinee and night.

Little has to be said in their favor; they are too well known to require "boosting." Sufficient to say that they carry forty people, and are presenting a program entirely new and full of novelties. No one-time worn, moss grown chestnuts tolerated, it's a bran new show, fresh and clean from start to finish. There are 12 comedians with a real reputation, the singing contingent embraces twenty voices, carefully trained for the minstrel stage, and a sextette of dancers whose like you have never seen before.

There is a band of twenty solo musicians under the leadership of Fred Simpson, and the management throw down the gauntlet to any minstrel in the world to produce their equal.

There will be a parade at noon, and a concert in front of the theatre at 7:30 o'clock in the evening.

The second rehearsal which was held by the Philharmonic Society on last Wednesday evening showed that the members are all taking a keen interest in the work by the great progress made since the previous rehearsal. The mixed chorus which is among the leading features for the coming concert in November are doing excellent work and will no doubt present a most agreeable surprise on the night of the concert. Dr. Roberts, one of the leading baritones of Portland who was heard at the Regatta Saengerfest will sing the leading part in Dr. Emma's opera, the "Mountain King." The date of the concert has as yet not been decided on.

The first winter session of the D. M. C. D. Club was held last Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Anna Campbell on Duane street. A large number of the members was present and the main discussion of the evening was had in making plans and arrangements for the future session to be held throughout the winter months. Quite a little enthusiasm was apparent at the gathering and the coming parties promise to be a complete success in every way.

On Tuesday next Astoria will lose three of its well known citizens for a length of time. Mr. and Mrs. B. Lindenberg, accompanied by their son, Bruce, have completed arrangements for an extended visit to Germany, their former home. Before sailing however, they intend visiting New York City for a week leaving the metropolis the latter part of the present month for the foreign shores.

The outing party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Knight, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Masterson, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Stremeyer, Miss Lucy Morton, Miss Fossett, Miss Margurite Mackey and Mr. Robert McLean returned from a visit at Gearhart Park. A very pleasant time was experienced by each and every member during the short outing.

Miss Laura McCamm has returned from Chicago, where she has been taking vocal lessons at one of the leading eastern conservatories. Miss McCamm has now completed her course which was of two years. She was accompanied by her sister, Miss Ellen McCamm. The culture received while in Chicago is said to have done wonders for Miss McCamm's already splendid voice.

The members of the Thursday afternoon Euchre Club were charmingly entertained by Mrs. John Whyte at her pleasant home on last Thursday afternoon. The afternoon proved to be a very enjoyable one. The holders of the high cards and winners of the prize gifts offered were Mrs. Keene and Mrs. Charles Humphreys.

The theatre goers are going to see some very good productions this winter which will add to the pleasure the winter will afford, there were a few informal theatre parties given on Friday night at the Isle of Spice and there gives promise of being a good many this season.

Mayor Wise entertained Admiral Shepherd of the fourteenth annual regatta at his home the early part of last week, during the admiral's visit in the city he accompanied the Mayor and his family to a visit to the good ship Donna Francesca.

Among the departures from this city in the past week were Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Burlingame and daughter who left for a visit in the east for about a month. Among the places to visit is the old home of Mr. Burlingame at Covington, Kentucky.

Mrs. Pauline Becks' pretty home on Irving avenue was the scene of a delightful reception given the Ladies' Aid Society of the Memorial Lutheran Church last Thursday afternoon. Quite a number of the members and friends were present and a most enjoyable time throughout was had.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heilborn left Monday for Portland where in all probabilities they will make their future home and where Mr. Heilborn will locate in business.

A number of friends of Mr. Geo. Flavel were entertained at her pleasant Seaside home last Thursday. The guests left Astoria on the morning train and returned on the 6 o'clock train all reporting a very pleasant afternoon.

THE Gossard CORSETS

"They Lace In Front"

If there ever was a style event, this is one. It concerns the very foundation of style—perfect corseting.

The Gossard Corset—which will be shown and demonstrated in our corset department three days this week by Mrs. L. C. Redding an expert corsetiere, is the only corset which induces the new and fashionable habit back and the "hipless" effect so much in vogue.

The front-lacing feature of Gossard Corsets, their ease of adjustment, their hygienic value in supporting the spine—reducing but not restricting the abdomen—giving free play to the vital organs—permitting deep easy breathing—all commend them to the woman who thinks.

At any rate, Madam, come and participate in this interesting event. No matter how beautiful your figure may be, we will prove how much more beautiful a Gossard Corset will make it.

We'll expect you tomorrow.
